

The Lending Library Project

Improving Lives

New technologies typically roll out in well-resourced communities. People in rural and remote areas, for example, have the same need for pain relief.

PhotoMed Technologies introduces the PhotoMed Technologies Project. The purpose is to lend Varichrome® Pros to practitioners in underserved communities. Donors may direct their funds to the support of photobiomodulation research.

This program extends PhotoMed's ongoing commitment to serving people who endure chronic pain and impaired functioning that has not responded to previous treatments. One Varichrome Pro may prompt relief for 100 people or more in one year.

The program starts with lending one Varichrome® Pro to practitioners. Individuals, companies, churches, organizations, and family foundation donors may suggest communities that they would like to serve via their donations. The goal is to have 15 devices serving patients.

Thank You

Thank you for joining with me to improve the lives of people with treatment-resistant chronic pain and impaired functioning. Together we can help practitioners serve people who would otherwise be left out for lack of access. This service has been a driving plan since I founded PhotoMed Technologies in 2000. We achieved our first deliveries in 2022.

The Lending Library Project won't happen without outside funding. Even small donations help. We welcome donations from people who have received benefit from the Varichrome® Pro.

Sincerely,
